General Description of the Parkeville Hydropathic Institute.

The main building is three stories high, standing back from the street about one hundred feet, with a semicircular grass plot in front, and contains thirty to forty rooms. The grounds around the house are tastefully laid out with walks and planted with trees, shrubs, &c. On the left of the entrance to these grounds is a cottage containing four rooms, used by male patients as a bathing house, with right of the entrance, about two hundred feet distant, stands a similar cottage, used by the ladies for similar purposes.

Jn the rear of the Institute, at the distance of one hus In the rear of the insutute, at the distance of one hundred feet, are three other cottages, some eighty feet spart. One of these is the laundry, with a hydrant at the door; the other two are occupied by the servants.

The hydrant water is introduced into these cottages as well as into the main building, and all the waste water carried off by drains under ground.

well as into the main building, and all the waste water carried off by drains under ground.

THE WATER WORKS

Consist of a circular stone building, standing on the brow of a hill, surmounted by a large cedar reservoir containing five bumired barrels, brought from a never-failing spring of pure cold water in the side of the hill, by "a hydraulic ram," a self-acting machine of cast iron, that is kept constantly going, night and day, by the descent of the water from the spring. The surplus water is carried from the reservoir to a fountain in the water-works yard, surrounded by weeping willows. In the first story of the water-works is a circular room, containing the douche bath, which is a stream falling from a height of about thirty feet, and can be varied in size from half an inch to an inch and a half in diameter. Adjoining the douche room is a dressing room, with marble tables, &c.; the rising douchs (for the cure of piles, &c.) is one of the most complete contrivances of the kind, being entirely under the control of the patient using the same.

There are many other appliances, which can be better understood by a personal examination.

price, $2 50 per volume. Orders respectfully solicited. SEARS' PICTORIAL FAMILY PUBLICATIONS are decidedly the best books that agents can possibly employ their time in supplying to the people of the United States. They are valuable for reference, and should be possessed by every family in this great republic. There is not a city or town in these United States, not even those of small importance, but contains many citizens to whom these works are indispensable. They are adapted to the literary wants of the Christian, the patriot, the statesman, and the domestic circle, got up in a superior style of art and workmanship; and are not only such books as will sell, but are such as an agent of good principle will feel fee to recommend, and willing to see the purchaser again after they have been bought.

Que Plan.—The plan the publisher has so successfully carried out for several years, is the obtaining responsible men as agents, who are well known in their own counties, owns, and villages, and have time and disposition to circulate good and instructive books among their neighbors and friends. Any person wishing to embark in the enterprise will risk little in sending $25 or $50, for which he will receive an assortment as he may direct, at the wholesale cash prices.

Enterprising and active men of respectability and good address, would do well to engage in the sale of the above volumes; and all postmasters, elergymen, book pedlars, and newspaper agents, are respectfully requested to act as our agents. A handsome remuneration allowed to all who engage in their sale. For particulars address, post paid,

For the American Telegraph. THE PRESIDENT'S PROGRESS. A Patriotic Poem.

PART 30.—Herein the Poet first discourses of himself, then pursues the "Progress" sings about newspapers, and other interesting and sublime matters; concluding the Part with a Grand Ball at Shannondale. Though few believe the papers, still I should, and by the gods I will,

Deny a charge I've read in one, Here published. This should not be done, Nor would I condescend thereto, If memy gentle readers knew: A stranger must himself defend, Or hard 'twill be to find a friend

Now here's the charge: they say I'm paid,
That all my patriotism's—trade!
"Tis no such thing: I omly write
To show affairs to proper light.

I "paid!" If so, pray tell me what? My little purse no larger's got; I speca the day in honest toil, and read and write by "midnight oil."

I "paid!" No "Progress" can I make, No Summer recreation take; I stay at home, and there review The nothings that our great ones do.

Will mend in this Administration, However much my truthful rhyme May aid in patching up the time.

Nor can I think my situation

Though soon I'll make the nation's debt To Plutarch Puffer large indeed: But merit, here, can't have its meed!

Reflecting more, I scarcely think I'd let my independence sink So low as offices require; To spread my doublet on the mire

As Raleigh did, that Majesty May pass with dainty footstep free! I wouldn't even my threadbare cont To such vile purposes devote!

So much for matters personal; And now the Progress I recall, Now follow fast the flying train, And "Richard is himself again!" The cars arrived, that afternoon,

At Charlestown—and arrived too soon, For none at depot gave them greeting— It happened all the folks were eating. XII.
When engine whistle loudly poured The tidings, each sprang up from board, Ran out with knife and fork in hand,

To see the magnates of the land, XIII. And would have shouted, but, awhile, Could only "grin a ghastly smile;" So full their mouths of bread and butter, No salutation could they utter.

Mowe'er, His Excellency knew, Though dumb their mouths, their hearts were true And did himself congratulate That all were in such thriving state.

"Ah, see !" he said, to Banker near, "What charming evidence is here Of Whig Administration! See How much the country owes to me!"

Erratum.-The 39th stanza yesterday should have

" And shouted loud the happy throng."
